Home Contact Us Subscribe

Today's News - May 14, 2002

Anyone who thinks architectural criticism is lacking in the media should be pleasantly surprised with today's news gleanings. The coals have been stoked for a number of high-profile projects and plans, and architects, planners, and countries are taken to task. There is some good news, too...7 World Trade Center is a go (the NY Post included a picture, the NY Times did not). And who doesn't like a good-news story about playgrounds (except a few curmudgeons who might be upset the swing sets are too small for them to play on...).

If you missed yesterday's feature article about the AIA Top Ten Green Awards, it is now residing on our home page.

To subscribe to the free daily newsletter click here

Rise From the Ashes: 7 WTC will be an airy, glass-skinned structure - Skidmore, Owings & Merrill [image]- New York Post

Tackling Sprawl: It will take the brightest minds in architecture to save suburbia. By John King- San Francisco Chronicle

Op-Ed: Can We Tame Sprawl? Advocates of "smart growth" may be fighting a losing battle against sprawl.- PLANetizen

Shapemaking gone mad: Norman Foster's London City Hall. Restraint is a virtue...is a virtue conspicuously lacking... By Hugh Pearman [images]-HughPearman.com

Modernist missteps in Houston: New Hobby Center is a glass house without reflection By David Dillon - Robert A.M. Stern; Morris Architects- Dallas Morning News

Mustering a master plan: Why has the Art Gallery of Ontario been resistant to Will Alsop's expansion scheme? - Will Alsop; Frank Gehry-Toronto Star

No green scrutiny for Christmas Island centre- Sydney Morning Herald

BURIED TREASURE Bulldozing History in the Middle Kingdom: China struggles to protect mysterious legacy of Shang Dynasty's capital-San Francisco Chronicle

Activists Fight to Save Beirut's Historic Homes-zawya.com

A dream come true: Jonathan Glancey is seduced by the new Manchester Art Gallery - Michael Hopkins and Partners- The Guardian (UK)

Museum renovations take shape: Detroit Institute of Arts' $91 million project expands space, access - Michael Graves; Maurice D. Parrish [images]- Detroit News

Foreign Architects Starting to Carve Out Niche - Murray O'Laoire; Evata- The Moscow Times (Russia)

EU rejects call to change flag - Rem Koolhaas- Ananova (UK)

L.A. Officials Float Plan to Pay for Hotel Downtown: propose a nonprofit corporation to pay for the $280-million project.- Los Angeles Times

Physicians building playground for kids with disabilities- Pittsburgh Live

Note: Pages will open in a new browser window. External news links are not endorsed by ArchNewsNow.com. Free registration may be required on some sites. Some sites may expire after a few days.

Yesterday's News

© 2002 ArchNewsNow.com